

2020 Reentry Events

January 29, 2020 The Department of Justice's Community Engagement Unit and Delaware Correctional Reentry Commission's Communities of Support sponsored a "What's Next?" workshop in Dover, Delaware at the Edgehill Training Center. The event was for the families and friends of those who are returning home from incarceration. The topics of discussion centered around how to have a conversation about expectations with your loved one, what resources are needed to sustain the household once a loved one comes home, and the emotional strain the families endure when an individual goes away and comes back. A panelist of professionals was available to talk about these issues, and individuals with lived experience also shared their journey. Services and resources were offered to assist and support families.
